- Pencil and compass
- Colouring pens
- Glue gun
- Scissors or craft knife
- Old felt pen
- Hacksaw

A COUNTER WEIGHT IN THE BOULDER KEEPS T-REX UPRIGHT!

EVIL MASTER #1

1: Cut out the two sides of a 750g cereal box. On one side mark out the boulder pattern (twice) and the 4 circles (A) and (B). Cut them out using a craft knife.

2: Roll both boulder cut-outs in to a tube and glue. Fold the tabs inwards, work consecutively, so each overlaps its left hand neighbour. Apply glue around each inner rim and attach circles (B).

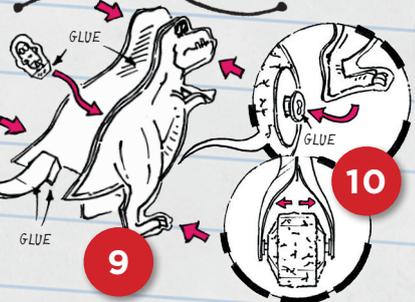

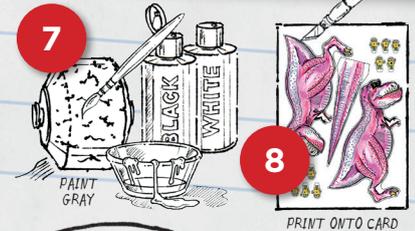

3: Use a hack saw to cut a 48mm section from an old felt tip pen. Wrap a stack of 15 two pence coins with duct tape and attach them to the center of the pen section using lots of hot glue.

4: Make a hole in the centre of circles (B) using a sharp pencil. Enlarge it until the pen section can fit through loosely.

5: Push a straw through the pen section (helps stop it slipping inside the boulder). Slide each boulder half on and join using more duct tape. Remove the straw and glue circles (A) onto the ends of the pen.

6: Create a boulder effect by using PVA glue to attach, and completely coating, pieces of crinkly tissue paper.

7: When dry paint the boulder gray, using a mix of black and white poster paints.

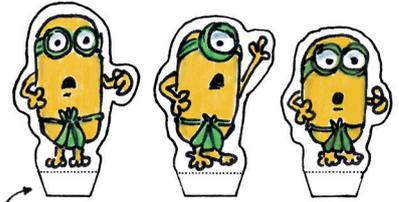

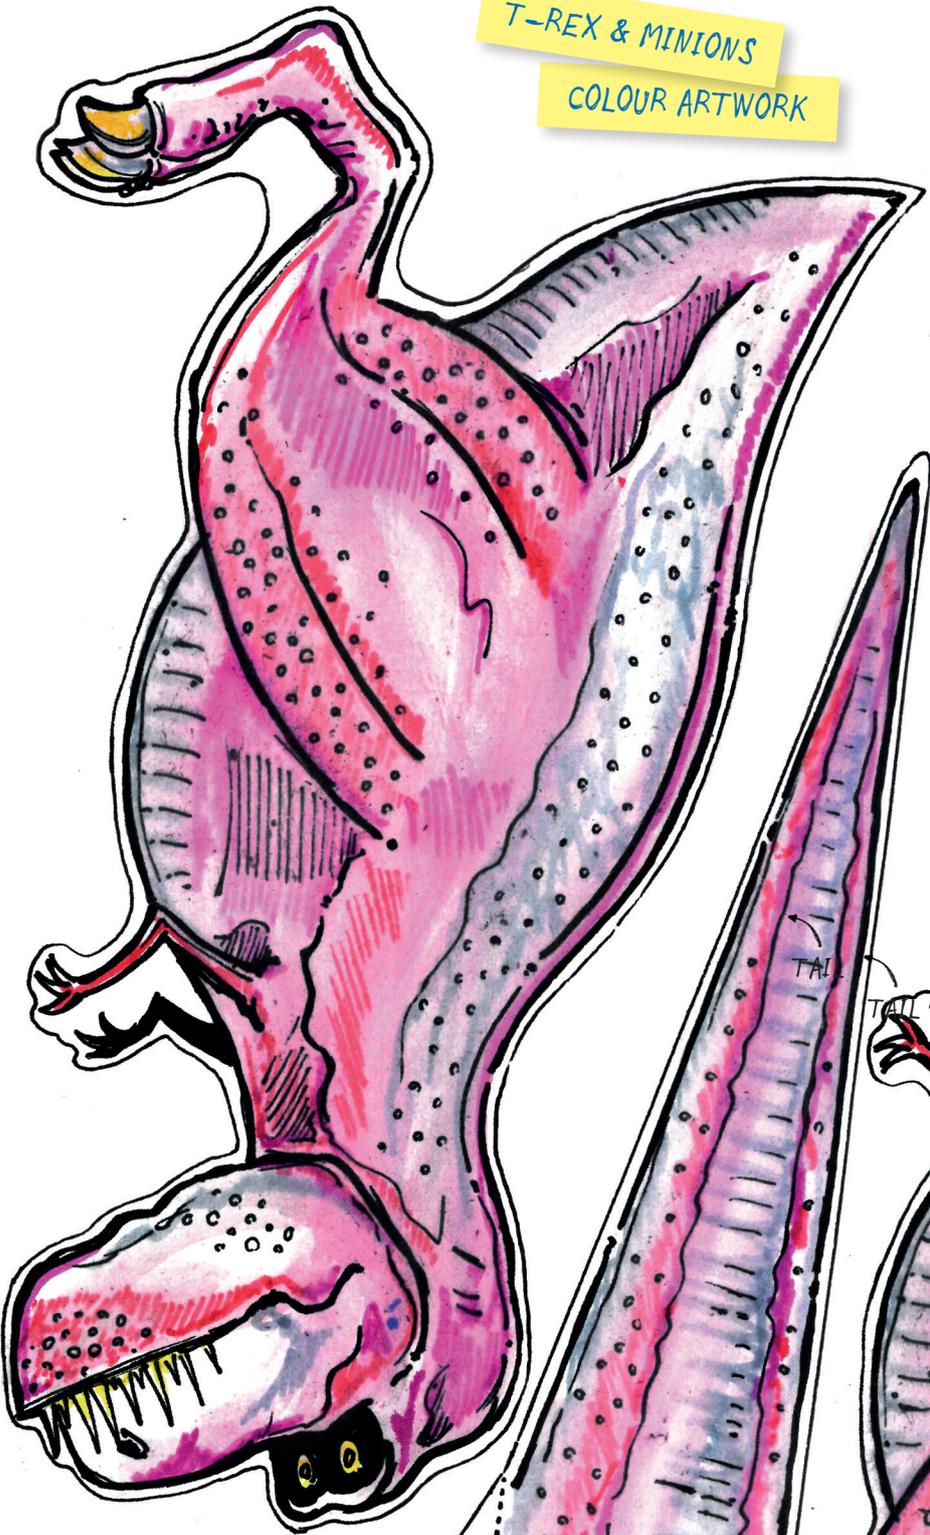

8: Print the T-Rex and Minions artwork onto A4 280mic card (or draw your own using the other side of the cereal box). Cut them them out.

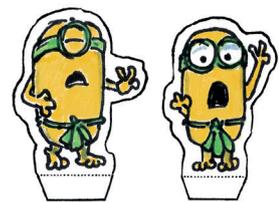

9: Join the T-Rex halves together by gluing the head area only. Attach the tail and Minions (put them wherever you like) by applying glue to the glue tabs.

10: Glue the T-Rex feet to the ends of the pen section and bend the body outwards so the boulder turns freely. That's it, try making a ramp from a piece of wood, and start having Minions fun!
